

Form One Students Explore Guangzhou's Urban Planning, Development and Natural Ecology

To enrich students' learning experiences and enhance their national identity, our school's Other Learning Experiences (OLE) Committee and National Education and Chinese Culture Promotion Committee collaborated to organise a Mainland study tour for Secondary 1 students, titled "Guangzhou's Urban Planning, Development and Natural Ecology".

The study tour was successfully completed on 29th June 2024, allowing students to explore the city's development history and achievements, and understand Guangzhou's urban planning and development in the context of the Guangdong-Hong Kong-Macao Greater Bay Area. Participating students were able to learn about different types of plants, understand biological diversity, and the importance of protecting nature through a walk in an important park in Guangzhou. They also visited an exhibition centre to grasp the information of the overall city planning through browsing the statistics and the planning models.

This study tour has been an invaluable experience for our Form One students, strengthening their national identity and fostering a sense of pride and belonging. By immersing themselves in Guangzhou's urban planning and natural ecology, our students have developed a more comprehensive perspective on the country's development and its commitment to environmental sustainability. Our students gained a deeper understanding of the national situation and the latest national developments, which greatly benefited them and enhanced their knowledge and appreciation of Chinese culture. We are proud of their learning achievements and the collaborative efforts of our OLE Committee and National Education and Chinese Culture Promotion Committee in making this tour a success.
