

Alumnus Ir Dr David Kwok Tai Wai Awarded

the 2024 Young Industrialist Awards of Hong Kong

The Young Industrialist Awards of Hong Kong (YIAH) were established by The Federation of Hong Kong Industries. It invites distinguished individuals and senior industrialists to form a prestigious judging panel that selects awardees based on candidates' achievements, vision, contributions, and integrity.

Our alumnus, Ir Dr David Kwok, was recognised with the 2024 Young Industrialist Awards of Hong Kong. As early as 2014, he began applying Building Information Modeling. His innovation and dedication to sustainable development have earned him a reputation in the industrial and construction engineering fields, including the Hong Kong Institution of Engineers' "Young Engineer of the Year Award 2024", as well as "The Outstanding Alumni Award of PolyU BRE 2024" "The Outstanding Alumni Award of PolyU FCE 2024" from both the Department of Building and Real Estate and the Faculty of Construction and Environment at The Hong Kong Polytechnic University.

Dr Kwok received his Master's degrees in Engineering from Imperial College London and Mathematics of Finance from Columbia University, along with a doctorate from The Hong Kong Polytechnic University. He is currently the Operations Director of Wah Tung Facade Company Limited (Wah Tung) and is pursuing an MBA at Peking University.

Dr Kwok is the founder and chairman of Insquare Foundation Limited. He is a passionate advocate for our school's STEAM education, organizing free STEAM-Python programming experience workshops for Form One students to enhance their programming skills.

Dr Kwok has made significant contributions to the construction industry and is dedicated to charity and education. This award is well-deserved. Our school community warmly congratulates alumnus Dr Kwok and wishes him continued success in the industrial and engineering sectors for the benefit of society.
